

2012 CDDC Youth Convention

November 21-23, 2012

Through you I will reveal myself holy to the nations that are watching

zekeL 20:4

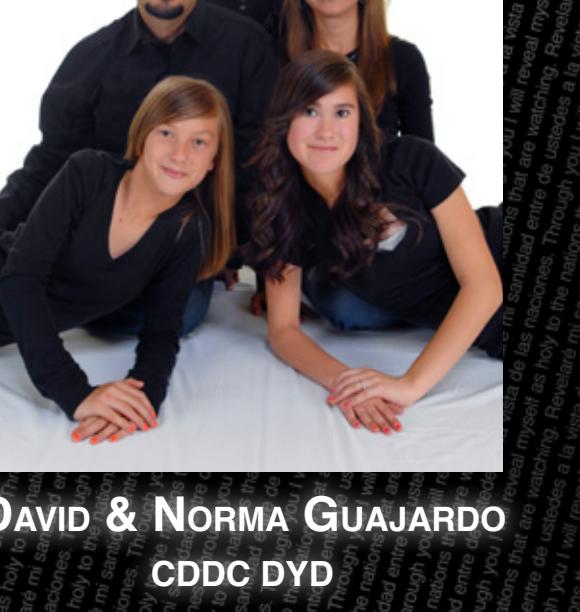

Dear Pastors, Youth Leaders and Youth,

I had a conversion with a 6-year-old boy and he ask if he could tell me a joke. I said sure, so he said: “Why did the man NOT cross the road?” The opposite of the typical answer went through my mind, “He didn’t want to get to the other side.” But the boy said, “Because he was too chicken!” It was corny, but it was funny...especially coming from a 6-year-old.

It made me think, what would it take to have courage for Jesus. Letting Jesus REVEAL His glory in your life will have risk. Getting to the destination God has for us means facing many busy highways that threaten our resolve. We must be willing to confront our fears. Many people settle for the safe side of the road. We argue intellectually and rationally, “What if I fail? What if I sound ridiculous? What if I don’t make it?” As a result, dreams sometimes get buried in the graveyard of impossibilities. Maybe we would do better to ask the question, “What are the risks if we don’t?” Think about it. What if Moses had ultimately refused to lead the Israelites out of Egypt? What if the Apostle Paul had listened to those who doubted his true conversion? And what if Jesus had considered the cruelty of the cross a price too high to pay? The consequences of their inaction seem obvious. It may be that the risk of refusing to try is actually greater than the risk of failing to arrive. A quote by Steve Jobs, who was Remembering that I'll be dead soon is the most important tool I've ever encountered to help me make the big choices in life. Because almost everything—all external expectations, all pride, all fear of embarrassment or failure—these things just fall away in the face of death, leaving only what is truly important.”

be afraid, let Jesus REVEAL His glory in you and make a difference in this generation!

AIM Missions Trip

All AIM trips are a coordinated effort between students, leaders, missionaries, and churches. Many students participate in these trips each year. Our goal is to see every student be able to go on an AIM trip before they graduate high school. To this end, we are continuing to develop a core AIM Affiliate network which will include other short-term missions ministries that have a like-minded mission. We are also continuing to develop relevant resources and opportunities for all local churches to utilize.

CDDC Previous AIMS trips include Washington DC, Panama, and the L.A Dream Center. We are planning a missions trip for the summer of 2013. The location and dates will be announced during convention!

Youth Alive Campus Ministries

Youth Alive is a multi-faceted strategy that bring Jesus Christ, the message of Hope, to our school campuses. Youth Alive can impact a campus through prayer, empowerment, networking, and outreach.

It is a student-led and adult-supported ministry. Youth Alive provides students with the means and support needed to reach their friends and classmates with the gospel.

Be ready as we will issue a challenge at convention to all students that will change schools in our communities. What is this challenge? ... Make sure you attend convention 2012 to find out!
